A number of desertion and non-support cases were heard before the Adams county court this morning. The regular session, moved up one day because of the holiday Friday, continued this afternoon.

Clarence Shearer, Conewago township, was directed to pay $10 per week for the support of his child, pay the costs, and post $500 to comply with the order. He was given 30 days in which to pay the costs.

Laverne C. Fuhrman, Midway, was ordered to pay $12 per week for the support of his wife and children, pay the costs and post the usual $500 bond on his own recognition to guarantee payment.

Francis Strausbaugh, Orrtanna R. D., was held guilty of contempt of court for not making payments on a support order unless the arrears are paid by Monday. Earl Shultz, Orrtanna R. ## SAYS WAR HAS NEVER BUILT BETTER WORLD

"Peace cannot be achieved by writing pacts or making agreements," Dr. Harry F. Baughman, Gettysburg Theological seminary, told members of the Gettysburg Woman's club, at the club's November meeting Wednesday afternoon at the YWCA.

"When any powerful group within a nation, or a nation itself, desires war, these pacts become scraps of paper. Peace means building, line by line, precept by precept, to educate man to get along with his fellow man."

In speaking on the theme "Follow after the things that make for peace," Dr. Baughman declared that "it is essential that groups like this one give thought to the attainment of peace."

Quotes War Leaders

Dr. Baughman quoted David Lloyd George as declaring, during World War I: "The world after this war is over can resume the business of peace," and Woodrow Wilson: "It is a fearful thing to lead this country into war, but the right is more precious than peace and we

News Collected At Random

One of the most beautiful and inspiring books ever published is now available at the Lutheran Theological Seminary in two limited editions. It is titled "Abide in the Presence," but we like to call it "The Story of the Windows."

The new book is a very interesting story of the unique art windows in the Church of the Abiding Presence, the imposing edifice of the local seminary on Seminary Hill. It is a narrative in words and pictures, the composite product of many heads and hands and hearts. The illustrations are beautiful four-color process photographs of the windows in the church.

Mr. Wilson listed seven presidents who became chief executives through the death of presidents, three who were elected "minority presidents" and three who won presidential nominations as "dark horses."

"When Harry Truman was informed on April 12, 1945, of the death in Georgia of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and sat at his desk on Friday, April 13 to become the 13th accidental president, he had one thing in common with Washington, both became presidents in April," the speaker said.

Three "Dark Horses"

"He had one thing also in common with Lincoln, both had gone broke as merchants, and one thing in common with Thomas Jefferson, both were musicians."

Five thousand copies, the same as the du luxe edition except for the padded cover, are available at three dollars per copy.

The book was printed by the Times and News Publishing Company, publishers of The Gettysburg Times, and is one of the finest products of this plant.

The photography was by Walter B. Lane and the hand oil coloring of the photographs, all in original color, was by D. Janice Lane, both of the Lane studio.

"ACCIDENTAL" PRESIDENTS TOPIC OF TALK

Students of Gettysburg college, faculty members and others heard an address in Bräu chapel this morning by Frederick Taylor Wilson, Texas attorney and widely known lecturer, on "Accidental Presidents."

The speaker is a graduate of Vanderbilt university and the law school of the University of Texas. He has practiced law in Houston, Texas, and lectured widely throughout the United States.

The new book is a very interesting story of the unique art windows in the Church of the Abiding Presence, the imposing edifice of the local seminary on Seminary Hill. ## Members Of Troop A Prepare For Annual U.S. Inspection; Need 20 Men To Fill Ranks Handling an eight ton vehicle at 56 miles an hour part of the training received by members of the local troop of the National Guard, Lt. John W. Deardorff, Jr., commanding officer, said today.

The three armored cars of the local unit weigh 16,500 pounds apiece and carry an armament including a 37 millimeter gun, mounted on the gun turret at the top of the car, a .30 caliber machine gun mounted beside the 37 millimeter gun and a 50 caliber machine gun mounted atop the vehicle.

Operating the car are a driver, radio operator, car commander and a gunner. The vehicles are used for reconnaissance and rely on their armor plate, ranging from 7/8 to 3/4ths of an inch in thickness, for protection from small arms fire and rely on speed to keep them out of range of heavier guns.

While continuing its maintenance of the heavy vehicles, its half tracks, jeeps and trucks, and other arms and equipment, the local unit is also engaged in developing and adding to its facilities in other lines. This week the members are completing an indoor 22 caliber rifle range, which they hope to have ready for a Sunday match with the Harrisburg unit of the squadron.

With a 54-gallon gas tank, the armored cars can travel from 100 to 200 miles over open country without refueling and can travel from 200 to 400 miles on highways without stopping for gas.

This week the members are completing an indoor 22 caliber rifle range, which they hope to have ready for a Sunday match with the Harrisburg unit of the squadron.

The troop is seeking to increase its membership and have everything in perfect shape for the annual inspection general's inspection scheduled for January 3. The results of that inspection will determine whether the troop remains here. If sufficient membership has been obtained by that time the troop will remain in Gettysburg. About 20 additional men are needed to fill the ranks. Most recent recruit was Cpl. Ralph H. Koontz, Gettysburg R. 2, who enlisted Tuesday for a one year term.

Those interested in the guard may visit the armory any day between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m., or on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 8 to 10 p. m. The armory is located along West Confederate avenue and can be reached from Ridge avenue.

At that session, to be held in the court house at 7:30 o'clock, the group will set the date for a CROP drive throughout Adams county to raise pledges of food and cash for overseas relief.

Accepts Position As Research Chemist

Robert B. Fortenbaugh, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Fortenbaugh has begun his work as research chemist in the laboratory of the Calco Cyanamid company at Bound Brook, N. J.

Mr. Fortenbaugh recently completed all requirements for the degree of doctor of philosophy in chemistry at the Johns Hopkins University. He and his family have moved to 10 Koehler Drive, South Brook, N. J.

A graduate of Gettysburg college in 1944, Mr. Fortenbaugh served in the army for nearly three years. He is married to the former Miss Esther Kenyon, who graduated from Gettysburg college in 1946. They have one child.

They suggested cutting the number of delegates, after the one delegate for the first hundred, to one delegate for each 200 or 300 members thus decreasing the number of delegates by about one-third to one-half. This would permit Harrisburg and other similarly sized cities to be hosts to the annual convention.

Frank Middlekauf, Waynesboro, was re-elected district vice commander and John Alexander, Dry Run, was renamed district finance officer at Wednesday night's session.

STATE OF SIEGE IS DECREED IN COLOMBIA

Social Happenings

Dr. and Mrs. William J. Miller, Jr., of Philadelphia, were the overnight guests recently of Dr. and Mrs. John B. Zinn, West Broad street.

A meeting of the Junior Circle of the Presbyterian church will be held Tuesday evening, November 22, at the home of Miss Charlene Patterson, West Middle street.

Censorship of press and radio also was ordered by President Mariano Ospina Perez.

(News of the state of siege was filed last night by the Associated Press correspondent in Bogota and was not received in New York until this morning).

The state of siege was proclaimed last night after troops cordoned off Colombia's capitol building and stood guard throughout the country to suppress any further outbreaks of the bitter fighting which has raged for the past month between Liberals and Conservatives.

Deny Assassination Attempts

The president also suspended sessions of departmental assemblies and municipal councils.

Widespread rumors of assassination attempts against political leaders were denied officially by the national radio.

Many business places in the center of the city closed early yesterday afternoon as troops began moving through the streets.

Early yesterday the government imposed a 9 p.m. to dawn curfew in Bogota and in Cali, Colombia's fourth largest city, to keep everyone off the streets at night.

Troops Dispatched

Troops were dispatched to strategic points throughout the country. Government buildings were put under heavier guard. Congress members and newspaper reporters were barred from the capitol building.

Speculation grew that the army might take over power from the civilian government to curb the bloody outbreaks between Conservative and Liberal party supporters.

Such action might postpone the balloting scheduled November 27 to name a successor to Conservative President Mariano Ospina Perez.

Henry E. Luhrs, Shippensburg, president of the Lincoln Fellowship, will preside at the hotel session.

Following the meeting at the hotel, the Fellowship will join with the Sons of Veterans, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars for the annual November 19 exercises to be held in the form of a parade through the town and services at the National cemetery.

Felton Mixed Up In New Controversy

Detroit, Nov. 10 (AP)—Young Lester Felton of Detroit, who is fast becoming one of the most controversial figures in boxing, was back in the headlines today—this time because he did not win a fight.

The 20-year-old negro welter-weight zoomed into national prominence October 21 when he got an unpopular decision over Kid Gavilan of Cuba in a fight here that touched off probes by the state Boxing Commission and police.

The Canners led in first downs 10 to five. They completed six out of 12 pass attempts while Scotland failed to connect in five tries.

Scotland received the opening kick-off and brought it back to its own 30. Russel drove for a first down to the 40. Scotland was forced to kick on fourth down and the Canners took over on the Scotland 44. Coulson failed to gain through the line on three downs. On fourth down, a pass from Coulson to Stoner, clicked for a first down to the 27. G. Starry and Coulson gained another first down to the 14. Again on fourth down Coulson passed, this time to Baker, and the pass was good for a touchdown as Baker charged over the pay-dirt stripe. Coulson bucked over for the extra point.

Judges Johnny Webber and Lou Jallas each called it a 50-50 fight, while Referee Clarence Rosen voted for Felton by 54-46 margin. Under Michigan rules, explained by Boxing Commission Chairman Floyd Stevens, that was a draw.

to the Biglerville 25 where Stoner finally caught up with him. On fourth down Berdette added a first down to move the ball to the 14. Scotland moved to the 9 where they lost the ball on downs.

Biglerville's final score came in the final quarter after a quick kick gave Scotland possession on their own 12. On third down Monn intercepted a Scotland pass and went over from about the 20. Coulson bucked over for the extra point.

LIONS HOPI NG TO SURPRISE BULLET TEAM

Reading, Nov. 10 (AP)—Unable to defeat Gettysburg in nine previous meetings, the Roaring Lions of Albright college will try again Saturday afternoon when they entertain the high-powered Bullets in the tenth renewal of a football feud dating back to 1913.

Gettysburg has taken six of the nine games, with the other three ending in tie scores. Coach Hen Bream's Orange and Blue holds a wide edge in the scoring, 155 to 43.

Both the 1913-14 games ended in identical 7-7 deadlocks. Then the Bullets stepped out to win 34-0 in 1919; 21-10 in 1920; 7-0 in 1938; 6-0 in 1939, and 34-0 in 1946, before the Reading collegians bounced back to earn a 13-13 stalemate in 1947. Last year, Gettysburg romped to an easy 26-6 decision.

Neutral observers don't concede Coach Eddie Gillian's Albrightians much of a chance to snap Gettysburg's domination on Saturday. While the Lions were going down to their fifth defeat in seven starts last Saturday at Scranton university, 33 to 6, the Bullets scored a resounding upset by outlasting powerful Bucknell, 34 to 33. Last year, Gettysburg's sixth win in seven starts.

MANY SCHOOL LEAGUES STILL WITHOUT CHAMP

(By BEN FRENCH)

Harrisburg, Nov. 10 (AP)—King Football bows out of the sports scene for many Pennsylvania high schools this week-end with some conference titles still to be settled.

Jersey Shore has the Susquehanna League title sewed up with eight straight victories. It will be the first championship for the Lycoming county school in the 12-year history of the 16-team league. Jersey Shore meets Emporium in a non-loop clash tomorrow night.

New Castle's opponent in the important Class AA playoff game for the far-famed WPIAL will be decided tomorrow night when unbeatened, untied McKeever travels to Ambridge, a three-time loser.

If the Tigers continue to roll, they'll meet the Red Hurricanes in Pitt Stadium on November 26. However, if Ambridge wins or ties, the honor goes to Mt. Lebanon, who has concluded its league play.

Swoyerville, for the third time in a month, has an open date in the Eastern Conference's Northern Division.

Last time that happened the Sailors went into first place ahead of Old Forge, which has played and won every week. Both teams are unbeatened and untied. Old Forge plays Clarks Summit (2-3-1) Saturday and should be able to boost its margin.

Berwick (5-2) is host to Nanticoke (3-1-1) tomorrow night while Coaldale goes to Summit Hill (2-4) and Pottsville (5-1) travels up to Hazleton (4-1).

The last big night of the 43-member Western Conference finds DuBois and Conemaugh Township running neck and neck with 6-1 records.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TENSION

It is amazing how quickly the human body responds to messages sent from the mind. Thoughts are medicine and have more curative power than any remedy ever devised. A relaxed mind, free of all tension, can do wonders. It can drive out fear. It can manufacture courage. Knowledge of the power of the mind has changed many a failure to a success.

Both worry and fear create tension which can easily defeat any of us in whatever we do, if we absolutely surrender to them. We hear so much about certain people who talk about being overworked, and even about those who die from overwork. But it isn't that. Work is stimulating. People die from too much tension, lack of fun and recreation.

Study the faces in a crowded street. How many of them look happy? What a multitude have anxiety and trouble stamped upon them. The rapid strides of modern business have called for speed and quick success. There is tension all along the line. Too many able and useful people die too young. What a different story if they had relaxed more, taken more time, and enjoyed themselves!

I watched a pitcher in an important baseball game. He was doing wonderfully until he seemed to lose control temporarily. He walked several men. He became tense and could not get his pitches over the home plate, and so was removed. I have noted other pitchers experiencing a bad inning, only to relax, to get a grip upon themselves, gaining control and a win.

Anyone who is useful deserves enjoyment out of life. Tension is the enemy of both health and happiness. I know of those—and so do you—who cannot sit still in a room for five minutes at a time, and if they are given a silent place they are as lost and nervous as a caged lion.

From one of the prayers of Stevenson I quote this line: "Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind." If we had but these three things as a gift, how could there be anything but peace and contentment, of all tension, ours?

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Pleasure of Discovery."

TO LAST YEAR'S COAT

Old coat, last May, with the returning sun,

I looked at you with four years' service done,

Your lining frayed, your texture beaten thin,

Wrinkled and worn just like an old man's skin,

And said: "Next fall a new coat I'll acquire.

You've earned a rest. It's time you should retire."

Such was the thought that came to me last spring.

But now, since there's a tax on everything—

Income and outgo, from your attic hook,

I've brought you down to take another look.

And I will swear my Nellie I could here

Saying: "Not bad!" Twill do another year."

ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY IS FACING PROBLEM

Pittsburgh, Nov. 10 (P)—America's electrical industry today faces a tough problem: will it deal with the left wing United Electrical workers or the new opposition union set up by the CIO?

A half dozen companies already have come to grips with the problem and have met it in one of three ways:

(1) General Electric Company has announced it will deal only with the parent UE unless the National Labor Relations Board orders it to do otherwise.

(2) Westinghouse Electric Corporation said it will be strictly neutral and deal with both the left and right wing groups.

(3) Employers of four small locals in New York and New Jersey already have signed contracts with the new CIO group.

Result Of Expulsion

The situation arose as a result of the expulsion of the UE by the national CIO last week. The action was taken on the grounds the UE had too many left wing policies. The CIO immediately set up its own counter-organization—the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers.

To the new group, by the scores of thousands, have come flocking UE locals whose memberships are predominantly right wing. A national survey has disclosed more than 108,000 have shown a preference for the CIO—either by bolting outright through membership meetings or by other strong actions.

This was to have been expected: most unionists say the UE's 400,000 to 450,000 membership, prior to the split, was about half right and half left.

Required To Continue

General Electric has a large number of locals which voted "left" on the UE's national convention floor. GE Vice President L. R. Boulware, who last night announced the company's stand, said a payroll check this week of workers in contested locals showed more than 80 per cent continued to authorize checkoff of their union dues. He explained any employee can quit checkoff payments on 30 days' notice.

Boulware wrote James B. Carey, chairman of the administrative committee of the new CIO group, that GE is "required under the law" to continue bargaining with the UE. Only and NLRB order can change the situation, Boulware added.

Boulware stated the company has "no competent evidence that the IUE-CIO has been designated by a majority of employees in any bargaining unit. Even if a local switched," he added, "there seems to be considerable question as to whether it could take with it the old contract with the UE."

GE said it will continue to recognize the UE as bargaining agent for about 125,000 workers.

Westinghouse, whose 90,000 production workers are largely right wing, said it would stay "strictly neutral" in the union's internal problems.

CATHOLICS ARE URGED TO PRAY FOR PALESTINE

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—Pope Paul VI today exhorted Roman Catholics throughout the world to pray for Palestine "while its future order is now being discussed in public assembly."

The pontiff's exhortation followed a plea by the Catholic Action organ, Quotidiano, that the present United Nations General Assembly find a solution for the Holy Land that will respect, in addition to the rights of Arabs and Jews, the indispensable rights of Christianity.

The pope, who has included solution of the Palestine problem as one of the special aims of the 1950 holy year, asked today for a new crusade of prayer so that Jerusalem and all Palestine "may finally be given an order according to the norms of true justice x x x that would conserve their sacred character."

Prayer For Holy Year

The pope's appeal was printed in the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano.

The pontiff, in his bill announcing the 1950 holy year, had asked that "petition be made to God x x x that everywhere, but especially in the holy places of Palestine, the tranquility of order, founded on a just settlement, may be restored as soon as possible."

In his specially composed prayer for holy year, the pontiff again aluded to the Holy Land in these words:

"May the rainbow of peace cover with the sweep of its serene light the land sanctified by the life and passion of Thy divine son."

shall fight for democracy."

"As we face the observance of another Armistice Day, we look upon the horrible contrasts in the world today compared with the utterances and the aims of these men," Dr. Baughman said. "War does not end war; ill will never conquers ill will, and hate does not overcome hate. The aftermaths of all wars prove these facts to be true."

Calls War Degrading

"The resort of our world to force always destroys things only by which a new and peaceful world can be built. Truth is the first casualty. War destroys not only material values and resources but it destroys human life and human property, and degrades personalities. The institution of war reverses all training and sets our minds on hatred and destruction."

HEART STOPS FOUR MINUTES BABY SURVIVES

Philadelphia, Nov. 10 (AP)—A surgical drama in which a "blue baby" was "brought back to life" after her heart stopped beating for four minutes was revealed by Children's Hospital yesterday.

When nine-month-old Carol McNally was admitted to the hospital three months ago doctors said hers was an unusually severe case. Her body was entirely blue. Samples of her blood contained only three percent oxygen instead of the normal 95 per cent.

She suffered frequent attacks of unconsciousness. An examination showed a respiratory infection.

Heart Stopped Beating

Doctors decided a Potts-Smith operation, one of the latest techniques for correcting her condition, was necessary.

The operation was performed successfully two weeks ago.

It was while Carol was on an operating table that the four-minute drama occurred.

While a connecting link between the aorta and the pulmonary artery was being stitched, the child's heart stopped, doctors reported.

Nothing could be done until the stitching was completed.

When the stitching was finished the operating surgeon and the anesthetist succeeded in restoring the baby's heart beat with the first response coming four minutes after the heart had stopped, hospital officials said.

A joint effort of the Catholic Rural Life organization, Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief, the CROP program seeks to secure gifts of crops from farmers which are either sent directly overseas or are translated into money to purchase food to be given to persons in devastated areas.

Chapter 11

The stars shone down with untying brilliance as Arleta paced up and down the canyon road. Their rays, she thought, were like tiny knives. And her boot heels on the frost hard road rang, "Cal and Allene, Cal and Allene."

Of all persons, why should he have met Allene Lane? And why couldn't he have told Arleta, even written her? Was this more of that protection to which she'd been subjected for so long? If so, it surely meant that he, like others, believed there was something, some knowledge from which she must be protected.

And how had they met?

"What you need is a keeper!"

Arleta jumped as a voice rapped out at her from the darkness of the pines.

Arleta felt herself propelled toward the cabin by How Kelly, his voice still ringing at her. "How much good does that jacket do you hanging over your shoulders?"

"What are you doing here?" Arleta's teeth chattered between each syllable.

"That fool dog of mine. I should have left her on guard. Fire's out, I suppose. . . . Imagine she heard you pounding up and down the road, investigated, then whined at me until I broke down."

He pushed her onto the divan and began pawing around the cabin, finally coming upon the basket. "Ah, here's some paper."

"Not that!" Her voice rang out so sharply he looked down at what he held.

"Oh," the bluntness of that ejaculation. "You certainly do have the doggones way of learning things. When did you find this and where?"

She told him.

"Subtle," he grunted. "Well, if I can't use this I might as well start making shavings. Pull a blanket over your robe. These cabins cool off in ten minutes."

"How did she meet him?" Arleta blurted the words.

"She flies. Has a landing field at Seefar. He came in there thinking it was your place. Didn't you know? Didn't he tell you?"

"No one," she said bitterly, "ever tells me anything. Everyone is protecting me."

"Okay, Chips. Now forget everything until tomorrow at least. I'll leave a bundle of paper and kindling on your back porch. Good night. And I do mean good night."

She slipped into bed and lay watching the fire, her mind like a dozen wheels, each occupied with a different problem.

She couldn't stop thinking, but she could replace thoughts of Cal and Allene with other thoughts. This cold weather. She must order the tanks filled with fuel oil. As soon as the doors and windows were in she'd have the furnace going. It would be nice to have heat that didn't have to be fed constantly by hand.

How Kelly — strange the ease she felt with him. Like her father, he had the quality of abruptness she understood.

Cal wasn't abrupt. He was gentle, tender.

When Arleta stepped out of the rear door the next morning, looking for something, anything to start a fire, she found the sky looking like a strip of lemon peel in a frosted drink. Surely snow would follow. And she had so much to accomplish.

Looking at the sky, she tripped over a bundle on the steps, newspapers and fine kindling left by How Kelly.

A furniture van came to cart away the pieces to be repaired, and by the driver she sent word for the fuel oil men to call. The wires were repaired, the pump turned on and rusty water gushed from the faucets she opened. Chimney sweeps and cleaning crews cleared flues and floors, and fast on their heels came men with the windows.

By late evening there was a semblance of order. And by noon the next day a new stove and refrigerator gleamed their white and silver best to reflect in a freshly polished floor. And in other rooms fires were burning on the hearths, chasing out the chill.

And that evening as Arleta was ready to close the house, now warmed by the oil furnace, she heard the sound of a motor and saw her own car drive in and two weary persons emerge.

"I think," observed Arleta, standing on the lighted terrace, and a hand stretched out to Martin and his wife, "I've never been so glad to see anyone."

They hadn't stopped for dinner and there was nothing in the house. Martin unpacked the car, and when Arleta said she would drive into the resort town for food, Tunia declared she would go with her.

"My goodness, Miss Leta," she cried, "you don't know what to order."

Arleta looked at the girl. And then she nodded. Arleta wouldn't have known, but Chips knew.

"Tonight I bring ready-mades," she said. "Tomorrow I'll take you in, Tunia." And she said, "No talk until I return."

The resort town offered a general store where she remedied her oversight at an exorbitant price. She went then to a chicken-in-the-rough cafe for double orders and while they were being put up,

Thanksgiving party committee, reported that games would be held at the engine house Friday evening.

The firemen voted a donation of $100 to the Community Chest, on recommendation of Mervin Crouse, chairman of the donations committee. They also voted to have a photograph taken of the entire company and its equipment, on a date to be set later.

Notice was received that the state convention will be held in Harrisburg next year, September 19, 20 and 21. The parade will be held on the last date. An invitation was received from Earl Schwartz, Harrisburg fire chief, to attend the afternoon, which has been moved up from its usual time in October.

An invitation was also received from the Adams County Firemen's association to attend the annual memorial service, to be held November 4 at Flohr's church.

The following refreshment committee was named for the December meeting: C. Arthur Brame, Jr., Ivan Breighner, Arthur Buehler, Alvin Bupp and George E. Burgner.

shopped for breakfast food.

Halfway back she realized there were neither pots nor dishes and stopped at her cabin to borrow its wares. And watching the fall of the flakes born on a rising wind, she added her own covers. And when the car was packed she sat for a few moments arguing with her self, then turned the car around and drove up to the village store.

Again there were many customers stocking up against the storm blowing in. And again conversation stopped as though sliced off. But Arleta's chin was up, her voice arrogant as she listed her needs.

The boxes were filled and reposed on the counter.

"My car is outside," Arleta said.

"Imagine that," purred the store-keeper.

Someone snickered and then a man who'd been sitting twirling a glass of beer looked up.

"Are you Chips?" he inquired.

"Want to make something of it?" inquired Arleta in the voice of the twelve-year-old she had been.

UN TO DEBATE RED PLAN FOR WORLD PEACE

Lake Success, Nov. 10 (AP) — The United Nations moved today toward full-scale debate on Russia's demand for a Big Five pact to preserve world peace.

Russia's charge that Britain and the U. S. are warmongers lies at the base of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's proposal for a peace pact signed by Russia, Britain, the United States, France and China.

It foreshadowed a new peak in strained east-west relations, following several days of accelerated drum-beating against what the Russians call "Anglo-American aggression."

The 59-nation political committee gets into debate on the peace pact proposal today if it clears its decks of the prewar Italian colonies problem. It is expected to come up tomorrow at the latest.

"Poisonous Thorns"

When Vishinsky, early in this General Assembly session, fought to get his peace pact proposal on the program, he made a three-fold statement:

1. The United Nations should vote to prohibit atomic weapons.

2. Britain and the United States are engaging in acts that are leading to a new war.

3. The Big Five should sign a peace pact.

A United States delegate immediately called it "an olive branch surrounded with poisonous thorns" and labelled it "phony propaganda."

Russia's atomic proposals are already being debated in the special political committee, which resumes its atomic debate this afternoon, after a recess since yesterday morning.

Cal wasn't abrupt. He was gentle, tender.

PRODUCTION OF COAL CLIMBING

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10 (P)—Soft coal production climbed slowly toward normal today as bituminous union miners returned to the pits east of the Mississippi for the first time since September 19.

Most mines were reported to be in good shape and ready to resume production. Others gave the first men reporting back the job of preparing the pits for normal operations.

Many western Pennsylvania miners, where some 56,000 work in commercial and steel company owned operations, waited for local union meetings before picking up picks and shovels again. They have been idle almost eight weeks.

Operator sources, who refused to be identified, spoke of the diggers' dissatisfaction with the strike and their eagerness to get back on the payroll.

"Once the miners are back at work, I think they'll stay there," declared one veteran mine owner.

Democrats And Republicans Disagree On Significance Of Tuesday's Results

PLACE OPPOSITE
INTERPRETATION
UPON OUTCOME(By The Associated Press)
Labor organizations joined Democrats today in praising Tuesday's election results as major victory for President Truman's program.

But Republicans, who lost important campaigns in New York and elsewhere, disagreed on the significance of their setback.

Both the CIO Political Action committee and the AFL's political organization issued statements calling the Tuesday's balloting a clear sign that the nation's voters haven't changed their minds about Mr. Truman's proposals since electing him president in 1948.

A top Republican, Harold E. Stassen, also said the results of this week's elections "re-emphasize the very serious nature of our defeat in 1948."

"Setback, Not Gain"

But New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Mr. Truman's GOP opponent in 1948, saw things in a different light. Dewey backed the losing candidate in the New York Senate election which saw former Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman defeat Senator John Foster Dulles.

"The result of the senatorial election," said Dewey, "is a setback and not a gain for the policies of the national administration, since Senator Dulles ran well ahead of local tickets all over the state."

Stassen, in his talk at a National Press club luncheon in Washington yesterday, put in a plug for Senator Taft (R-Ohio), his opponent for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination which finally went to Dewey.

"Must Rebuild GOP"

The election Tuesday had raised speculation that victorious Mayor Thomas A. Burke of Cleveland, a Democrat, might be built up to oppose Taft in the congressional campaigns next year.

Stassen said he is a great friend of Taft, despite their differences on some issues, and will do all he can to help re-elect the Ohioan.

Friends of Burke intimated that he isn't anxious to campaign against Taft, anyhow.

Stassen said the Republican party must "rebuild."

This should be accomplished, he added, not by throwing anyone out of the party, but rather by urging the older members to "move over and make room" for younger people.

Lift For Labor

Labor received its greatest lift in the election of Lehman. It also claimed a part in the victory of Democratic congressmen from Brooklyn and San Francisco, as well as in the Democratic inroads in the Republican City Hall at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia. It backed a losing candidate for mayor in Buffalo.

The CIO supported the losing candidate for mayor of Detroit and the AFL was behind the winner. The AFL backed Elmer H. Wene, losing Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey, while the CIO attacked Wene for his tie with Jersey City political leader Frank Hague.

"The result of the senatorial election," said Dewey, "is a setback and not a gain for the policies of the national administration, since Senator Dulles ran well ahead of local tickets all over the state."

TO RETURN TO JOBS

Philadelphia, Nov. 10 (AP)—Approximately 15,000 men will return to their Pennsylvania railroad jobs as soon as coal and steel production picks up. "We don't know yet just how fast business will pick up," a PRR spokesman said yesterday. "It depends on how much coal is mined and how much steel is produced. But the men will be called back to work as business warrants."

The local Women of the Moose celebrated Christmas early this year in order to secure Christmas gifts for the youngsters at Mooseheart and the elderly people at Moosehaven, the two institutions sponsored by the organization. Two hundred and twenty-five gifts for the orphans of Moose members at Mooseheart were presented by the 270 women of the local organization. In addition 100 gifts for the elderly Moose members at Moosehaven were handed in. Some of the gifts, which included such things as 42 pairs of stockings, 10 dresses, a dozen nylon hose, 30 story books for children, games, men's shirts, pajamas and innumerable toys are shown in the picture above under a Christmas tree set up at the Moose home on York Street. The value of the articles was estimated at between $300 and $350. Shown with the gifts are, from left to right, Mrs. Anna Strausbaugh, Mooseheart chairman; Ruth Tate, senior regent of the local Women of the Moose, and Mrs. Mildred Warren, Moosehaven chairman.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10 (P)—Last night was moving day for a pack of noise-hating, germ-sensitive mice.

While most of this city's residents slept, a cargo of 3,000 specially-bred mice was moved 10 miles from the Lankenau hospital to a new $2,000,-000 cancer research institute.

Two similar moves will take another 7,000 rodents to their new home tomorrow and Saturday.

The mice—used in cancer experiments—required out-of-the-ordinary shipment methods because of their extreme sensitivity to noise and germs. A big bang or a few microbes might cause their death.

The tiny migrants first were placed in pre-heated stainless steel cages. The cages then were wrapped in sterilized blankets and placed in trucks which had been cleansed with live steam.

The trip was made at night to eliminate as much of the noise factor as possible.

At the new cancer center, the mice barracks were kept at a constant 80-degree temperature.

Scientists explained they considered the mice worth all the trouble because of the time and effort involved in their breeding and care. Their recorded lineage goes back 150 mice generations and the loss of one or more would affect the cancer experiments in which they play a major role.

SPECULATION ON WHY LEWIS ENDED STRIKE

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 10 (P)—This is now the open season for guessing why John L. Lewis called off the coal strike yesterday.

One man's guess is as good as another's, since Lewis doesn't tell his secrets.

If you want to get in on the act, here are some possible reasons why Lewis told his miners to resume work.

It's possible Lewis figured wrong when he struck on September 19. He may have thought there'd be no steel strike.

Some of Effect Lost

But, if his coal miners struck, it would only be a matter of time before the steel mills ran out of coal. This would have been pressure on the mine owners to settle with Lewis and get coal mined.

But when the steelworkers struck, this shut down the mills. They did not need coal while their strike lasted.

So a good bit of the effectiveness of the coal strike—insofar as it touched the vital industry and therefore might bring pressure on the mine owners to settle with Lewis—was wasted.

When the strike started September 19 there were widely published estimates that this country had on hand a supply of coal to keep its industries, such as steel and railroads, going 50 to 70 days. When Lewis sent his men back to work yesterday, they had been on strike 52 days.

Miners Hard Pressed

Lewis said he issued the back-to-work order as an "act of good faith designed to contribute to the public convenience."

Which was Lewis' way, apparently, of saying he didn't want anyone to suffer because of the strike. Yet, from a practical standpoint, a strike becomes most effective when the effects are most acutely felt.

So at the very moment the coal supplies were running down and the strike was putting on "increasing pressure, Lewis called his men back to work.

He said he did this for the public welfare. It's also possible his miners, workless and payless for 52 days with a settlement apparently no nearer than when the strike started, couldn't stand it any longer.

If that is true—and some mine owners said some miners were beginning to drift back to work—Lewis might lose his grip on the union. Dodging Publicity?

Something else might have induced Lewis to call off the strike: If the strike lasted much longer and the nation began to suffer badly, President Truman might have declared a national emergency, brought the Taft-Hartley act into the picture, and set up a board of fact-finders to examine the Lewis demands and the mine owners' ability to pay.

Since Lewis was demanding more money for the pension fund, the fact-finders probably would have wanted to check on the fund's operations.

This report would have been made public. The public has not been informed of the detailed operations of the fund, which is a private thing, and Lewis might not have wanted that publicity, particularly if the fact-finders said they thought it had been poorly managed.

Since Lewis has called off the strike supposedly only for about three weeks, nobody's guess at this moment may have been right. Now we have to wait and see what he does next.

DEFER PENALTY IN AUTO THEFT

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 10 (P)—An 18-year-old Danville, Pa., youth received a deferred sentence for a year after pleading guilty to a car theft charge.

Johnny Mordan was sentenced yesterday by District Judge Eben L. Taylor on the recommendation of County Attorney Elmer Adams and Probation Officer Chauncey Moore.

Judge Taylor told Mordan that the deferred sentence was not a reward for his action. "It means," the jurist said, "you have a chance now to prove to the people who have shown so much interest in you."

The people to whom the judge referred were a Washington, D. C., resident who promised Johnny a home and a job, a woman who sent him clothing and a man who gave him a new traveling bag. Others gave him money. He left after his release by bus for Washington.

Moore told Judge Taylor that Mordan and his 15-year-old sweetheart, Rita Jenkins of Northumberland, Pa., left home last September 9 and tried futilely to get married in three midwestern cities. Rita since has returned home.

The probation officer said the couple related they arrived here yesterday without food or sleep for two nights. They saw a car with keys in it and Mordan told the girl to get in and "get some rest." They

Gas Explosion Hurts Workmen

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 10 (P)—An explosion at the gas works of the Scranton-Spring Brook Water Service Co., yesterday injured two workmen.

One man, 38-year old Herman Schon, was hurled 100 feet from the top of an empty oil tank into the Lackawanna river. He suffered serious burns.

Walter Laggon was treated for bruises and slight burns at Scranton State hospital and discharged.

They were arrested the same day at nearby Eustis.

Police said the blast was touched off when a spark from an acetylene torch ignited fumes in the oil tank.

SPECULATION ON WHY LEWIS ENDED STRIKE

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 10 (P)—This is now the open season for guessing why John L. Lewis called off the coal strike yesterday.

One man's guess is as good as another's, since Lewis doesn't tell his secrets.

If you want to get in on the act, here are some possible reasons why Lewis told his miners to resume work.

It's possible Lewis figured wrong when he struck on September 19. He may have thought there'd be no steel strike.

Some of Effect Lost

But, if his coal miners struck, it would only be a matter of time before the steel mills ran out of coal. This would have been pressure on the mine owners to settle with Lewis and get coal mined.

But when the steelworkers struck, this shut down the mills. They did not need coal while their strike lasted.

So a good bit of the effectiveness of the coal strike—insofar as it touched the vital industry and therefore might bring pressure on the mine owners to settle with Lewis—was wasted.

Something else might have induced Lewis to call off the strike: If the strike lasted much longer and the nation began to suffer badly, President Truman might have declared a national emergency, brought the Taft-Hartley act into the picture, and set up a board of fact-finders to examine the Lewis demands and the mine owners' ability to pay.

MINERS OBEY LEWIS' ORDERS; SOME GRUMBLE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 10 (AP) — Thousands of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers followed the orders of their boss today. They dug coal.

The unpredictable Lewis ordered his 375,000 soft coal miners east of the Mississippi to go back to the pits until midnight, November 30. They had been idle eight weeks.

Lewis is still trying to get a contract to replace the one which expired last June 30.

And some of Lewis' members say they don't like the idea of going back to work until the contract issue is settled. But, as always, they're following Lewis' orders.

"Why go back for just three weeks?" was the general reaction among a sober-faced group of miners at nearby Bridgeville when they learned of Lewis' dramatic move.

Grumble But Obey

"We might as well stay out till we get something," said one UMW member. "After the 30th, we'll be at it (on strike) again," another miner declared grimly.

At Russellton, near Pittsburgh, about 95 per cent of the striking miners were hunting when Lewis' orders came. One fellow, his gun on his shoulder and a rabbit in his hand, said he'd be glad to work.

"I'm tired of just loafing around," he said.

Within a few hours after Lewis' order, his representatives in the field delivered official word to local officials. Some mine locals scheduled meetings immediately—others planned them today.

Joseph Mautino, president of Local 5526 at Harmarville, Pa., said his men would meet today. He added: "What the boys decide is okay with me. They are very bitter, but Mr. Lewis' orders will send them back to work. They may grumble a lot but they'll always do what Lewis tells them."

HORSE AUCTION AT HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 10 (AP) — The 11th annual auction of trotters and pacers apparently is headed for a new record with the sales already past the half-million dollar mark.

Led by 50 yearlings from the Hanover (Pa.) Shoe Farms, 189 horses went under the auctioneer's hammer yesterday. They brought $305,200 to raise the two-day total to $513,000, almost $50,000 more than at the same point in the four-day record sale last year.

The Hanover yearlings were knocked down for $123,000, an average of $2,466. The remainder of the consignment, including the highly publicized Imperial Hanover, will be sold today.

Top price of $9,000 was paid yesterday by George Cover, Rochelle Park, N. J., for the three-year-old trotting filly, Dark Helen. The Poplar Hill Farm, Lexington, Ky., bid in the aged pacing mare, Emalou Hanover, for $8,000.

Royal Blood, sired by the world's champion pacer, Billy Direct, out of the world's double gaited champion, Calumet Evelyn, was the best liked yearling. Fred B. Greenley, Harrington, Del., went to $7,100 to get the royally bred youngster.

Mrs. Filbert Reveals Flavor Secret of New Mayonnaise

"So many of you have complimented me on my brand new mayonnaise flavor that I want you to know just why it tastes so good," says Mrs. Filbert. "First, I put in lots more egg yolks for richness. Then I add more fresh lemon juice for a good zippy tang."

"I prepare it homemade style—in small batches—so you can enjoy real homemade flavor. And my mayonnaise gets extra-whipped to be sure it's creamy-smooth."

"Of course there's one other step, too, and that's my own secret. But when you taste my mayonnaise ... Mrs. Filbert's NEW Mayonnaise ... I'm sure you'll find an exciting flavor that's better than ever!"

CHANGE OF PACE IS DISPLAYED BY RUSSIANS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 10 (AP)—On Sunday in Moscow Georgi M. Malenkov, a member of the 12-man Politburo which runs Russia, made a speech.

"American imperialists," he said, have a program to "create by violence and new wars a world American empire. . . . Converting the whole world into a colony of imperialists. . . ."

He didn't name the "imperialists." Malenkov's speech was part of the Moscow celebration of the 32nd anniversary of the 1917 revolution in which the Bolsheviks, now the Communists, seized power.

Very Tough Speech

This was a very tough speech and Malenkov warned the "imperialists" to look out. But last night at the Russian embassy here the tone was one of smiles and handshakes.

The Russian diplomats in Washington celebrated the anniversary of the 1917 revolution by throwing a big reception at the four-story Russian embassy.

Andrei Vishinsky, the Russian foreign minister, was there, smiling, talking, shaking hands with the hundreds of guests, standing patiently for about two hours while he received the guests.

He told reporters, in a general way, that the common feeling of friendship between Russia and the United States has fallen asleep but some day it will awaken and, when that happens, the enemies of freedom in the world will tremble.

Many Newsmen There

There was the usual abundance at a party like that: sturgeon, caviar, chicken, turkey, ham, sandwiches. A five-man string orchestra played.

If Vishinsky's pleasantness was in contrast to the stern tone of Malenkov in Moscow the day before, perhaps a stranger part of the evening was this: The big number of newsmen there. About 150 of them and their wives were there, by special invitation of the embassy.

In other years comparatively few Washington newsmen were invited to Russian receptions but this year a load of invitations went out to members of the press.

Vishinsky Not In Charge

Why the Russians this year wanted to open their doors so wide to the newsmen is a Russian secret, since in Moscow the fewer the American reporters there are, the better the Russians seem to like it.

Vishinsky's cordiality last night, coming on the heels of Malenkov's

2. Be sure your telephone is on a firm desk or table where it is not likely to be knocked off.
3. Be careful to keep your telephone cord straight and even. Too much twisting can damage the wire.

TRUMAN TALKS ABOUT "FREE" ENTERPRISE

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 10 (AP)—The present Russian Communist leaders have grown old in the belief that capitalism will and must, by its very nature, end in a heap of ruins.

But as time goes on President Truman preaches more and more optimism about the future of free enterprise and the future of this country. This shows up repeatedly in his speeches. It showed up twice in recent days.

Here in Washington recently he was talking about his "point four" for world recovery, his plan for helping backward areas develop. He said: "If we can make a contribution in the know-how, and raise the standard of living just two percent, in the rest of the world, our factories and our businesses never could catch up with the demand that would be on them."

Had More To Say

"Just think of that. That's all we need to do. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility. There are resources in this great world that never have been touched."

Then later speaking in St. Paul, he had more to say—and more specifically about free enterprise:

"We are concerned with expanding our economy and the opportunities of our people. We are concerned with increasing our agricultural and industrial production, and our standards of living. We have, in fact, a whole new world before us. The world of increased opportunity and wider freedom that our new technology and increasing abundance make possible."

Initiative And Enterprise

"We must rely, as we have always relied, upon the spirit of initiative and free enterprise."

Then he added something: "We know that it is necessary for the government to follow policies that will make it possible for initiative and free enterprise to succeed." With that statement he was making it clear he doesn't think that all that's necessary for enterprise to succeed is just to let it alone.

A completely free enterprise is one where the government never interferes and never helps. In that sense, enterprise in this country has almost never been completely free, since the early tariff laws were aimed at helping American enterprise by protecting it from foreign competition.

How Far To Go?

As the years passed, the government stepped in other ways: With

Emmitsburg

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weisharr of Fairfield, Pa., visited last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cool and family. Mr. Cool was recently discharged from the Warner hospital in Gettysburg where he had been a patient for ten weeks, due to injuries received when he was struck on West Main street, Emmitsburg, by an automobile driven by Melvin Sharer of Waynesboro, Pa., on August 21. Mr. Cool is still in a cast and is convalescing at his home on West Main street.

On Sunday, November 13, at 7 p.m. the new motion picture, "Like a Mighty Army," will be shown in the Emmitsburg Lutheran parish house. The film is a stirring story about a congregation that took its faith seriously. It's a human story of pastors and the laity working together as partners for Christ. It pulls no punches; it tells the story as it happens again and again in our churches, the Rev. Philip Bower said. It is a sound film with a running time of 45 minutes. It is being shown in 4,000 congregations in America. It was produced by Cathederal Films in Hollywood.

has always been and still is: Just how much can the government step into American life and business without destroying free enterprise?

Projected solutions range all the way from no government regulation or help of any kind, to federal controls and those like President Truman's in which the government would take a much more active role in American life, for, as he expressed it, the "general welfare."

REPORT BIG 3 AGREE TO END DISSANTLING

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

Paris, Nov. 10 (P)—The West's Big Three foreign ministers were reported today to have agreed that most dismantling of German industry should stop.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman also were said by informed sources to have moved closer toward allowing the new West German Republic to join the Council of Europe.

Conditions for discontinuing the dismantling of German plants had yet to be worked out in the Big Three talks that opened yesterday. Britain still insists that such potential war industries as synthetic rubber and synthetic oil should be torn down, one source said.

Making Progress
The ministers reported "satisfactory progress" in yesterday's talks and expected to wind up tonight or early tomorrow morning with a definite announcement of agreements.

Diplomatic sources said they had reached accord in principle, at least, on ways to give Western Germany an international voice for the first time since the war's end, possibly modifying the state of war which still exists between the Western allies and the former enemy country.

Informed sources said all three ministers agreed tentatively that the West-sponsored Bonn regime should be admitted as an associate member to the Council of Europe—a 12-nation advisory parliament striving toward European unity. Schuman, however, was reported to have reserved a final commitment until after the French national assembly debates the issue later this month.
